Weekly Progress Report-5

This week, my primary focus was on accumulating comprehensive car data to input into the website. The coding for the website was successfully finished last week, leaving me with the task of gathering information about various cars throughout this week.